CENTRAL WEST SWELTERING IN INTENSE HEAT

No Immediate Relief In Prospect Weatherman Declares Today

Chicago, July 9 — (AP) — The scorching heat today had melted away north and middle western temperature records of long standing — and the prospects for immediate relief were slight.

There were three deaths for which the heat was held responsible. Temperatures above the 100 degree mark were reached in many cities with Miles City, Montana, blistering under a 106 degree record, for the day's maximum. Emporia, Kansas, baked under a 105 degree peak. Sioux City, Iowa was 104 degrees hot; the warmest there in four years. Omaha, Nebraska had its most torrid July 8, since 1874, the mercury reaching 102 degrees with one prostration.

Cle C. Nelson, 65, Virginia, Minnesota, was overcome by the heat in Minneapolis and died a few minutes later. C. V. Kerkove, 50, Hatfield, Minn., committed suicide because of ill health, aggravated by the intense heat. Edward W. Higgins, 63, a carpenter, died of heat prostration while working in Springfield, Missouri, on his first day on a job he had tried for weeks to get.

Blistering in Northwest North Dakota, which had sweltered in discomfort for the past week, had its second successive day of 100 degree temperatures or close to that mark. St. Paul had the highest mark for the two day period with 102 degrees, while Fargo yesterday sized under its highest temperature of the year, 96 degrees, and Jamestown had a 98 degree maximum.

Temperatures of 100 degrees burned the streets of Cairo, Illinois, Nashville, Tenn., Little Rock, Ark., and Phoenix, Ariz., and in many other communities throughout the Mississippi Valley, except where breezes from the Great Lakes resisted the fiery sun's demand, there were highs for the day well into the 90's. Chicago and Cleveland, Ohio, enjoyed the comparatively cool maximums of 78 and Detroit had but 84 as its highest for the day. Buffalo, N. Y. was relaxing in a 74 degree high comfort.

One minor rail accident was blamed on the heat, three empty freight cars being derailed on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe at Ellinor, Kans., the expansion and buckling of the rails under the heat being blamed. Continued warm was the forecast for most of the area with thunder showers offered as a possible relief to scattered sections.

CENTRAL ILL. BAKED Springfield, Ill., July 9 — (UP) — Central Illinois continued to swelter under the hottest weather spell of the year today as the mercury climbed steadily toward the 100 mark.

This section has experienced temperatures in the higher nineties, and in some places several degrees above the 100 mark, the last four days. The only relief was a rain and wind storm Sunday night.

Bathing pools and parks were filled last night by people seeking to obtain relief from the torrid weather.

HEAT KILLS FIREMAN

East St. Louis, Ill., July 9 — (AP) — Ben T. Jarrett, 47, of East St. Louis, died last night, of heat prostration. He was a fireman on the Mobile & Ohio and collapsed in his locomotive at Red Bud, Ill. It was the second death of the day in the St. Louis district attributed to heat prostration. The maximum temperature was 98 degrees.

Byron May Attempt To Force Play-Off

Several Dixon baseball fans went to Freeport this afternoon to view the Junior Legion game between Dixon and Hanover. The management of the Byron Juniors was reported to be attempting to force Dixon into another game as the result of the forfeit last Saturday at Byron when Dixon was declared the winner by a score of 9 to 0 by Umpire Ward Miller. It was reported here today that the Byron management would attempt to force Dixon into a double header at Freeport this afternoon.

Trask Picnic To Be Held August 27th

Some Oddities In Wire News Today From Various Parts

ROBBERS SOUGHT RELIEF

St. Louis, July 9 — (AP) — Even robbers seek relief from the heat. Two held up Paul Baesley, 16, on Main street in Collinsville, Ill., early today and forced him to drive them to St. Louis and take them for a spin in Forest Park so they could cool off, he reported to police. Before leaving his car, he said, they also relieved him of $22.

FOUND SNAKE IN FISH

Decatur, Ill., July 9 — (UP) — Otto R. Kyle, Decatur newspaperman, caught a pound and one-half big mouth black bass yesterday at the South Side Country Club lake. He cleaned the fish and found a water snake ten inches long in its stomach.

BEEES KILLED HORSES

Yakima, Wash., July 9 — (UP) — Forgetting honey, a swarm of neighbor bees visited Ellis Bounds' ranch and killed a team of horses and sent the driver to bed suffering from stings.

It seems there is little Bounds can do about it.

The prosecutor's staff, after hours of search, announced warning bees was one subject legislators apparently had overlooked.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Quincy, Ill., July 9 — (UP) — Bernice Trine, 11, was recovering from bruises here today following a narrow escape from death yesterday.

Bernice was drawn into an outlet pipe of the local municipal swimming pool, carried 150 feet, swept down a 38 foot wooden chute and dashed against a rocky hillside.

She was found by pool attendants who took her to her home.

LICENSE GOLF COURSES

Hopkinton, Ill., July 9 — (UP) — Cigarettes and golfing are expensive luxuries in Hopkinton.

Cigarettes have been heavily taxed for many years, and golfing joined the duty list last night, when the city council adopted an ordinance providing an annual $125 license fee for each miniature golf course. The councilmen indicated they thought the city should share in some of the reputedly large profits of the tiny practice fields. The owners are expected to pass on the tax to golfers in increased charges.

SHE GOT HER PARTY

Springfield, Ill., July 9 — (UP) — Evelyn Amanda Hackwith, 10, wanted a birthday party but didn't like to ask her parents the date of her natal day.

So she determined to get the information in her own way and consequently Miss Cecelia Lofy, an assistant in the County Clerk's office, was surprised when she heard a young voice pipe out "please, can you tell me the date of my birthday?"

Miss Lofy could and checking the records on births found Evelyn's birthday fell on July 25.

"Oh, goody," said Evelyn. "I didn't know it was so near. You see, I've never had a birthday party."

TWINS "DE-SIAMISED"

Atlantic City, N. J., July 9 — (UP) — The greatest feat ever perpetrated among that awe-inspiring collection of "human freaks" at the Atlantic City boardwalk show was the deft way in which Daisy and Violet Milton, heretofore known as "Siamese Twins" became two persons and smote their manager on "the nose, the face and cheeks."

The story came out in recorder's court today when the Milton Sisters answered a complaint of disorderly conduct. They appeared, thoroughly "de-Siamised," and said their manager had refused to pay them back salary totalling $2,120. Last night, they said, they made their final demand for the money and when they met with refusal, Daisy unbottled herself from Violet and smote the manager.

Recorder Altman dismissed the charges and ordered payment of the money to "avoid further complications."

SHOWMAN BANDIT

Los Angeles, Calif., July 9 — (AP) — A bandit with a flair for showmanship moved his company into the lobby of the First National Bank of Artesia yesterday and staged a performance for which he exacted a fee of $750.

"I have a gun on you. Five men within and three outside," read a note he handed the cashier. "Hand me all the money you have. My men will stay here for half an hour after I leave."

The robber took $750 and departed. His men strolled in silence about the bank until the police arrived. "He hired us at an employment agency to work on a ranch," the leader explained when informed he had been an accomplice in a bank robbery. "He told us to follow him to the bank where he would get payroll money."

They were released.

THREE 'SWEEPING' INVESTIGATIONS OF CRIME UNDER WAY

But Little Headway By Any Of Them Is Reported To Public

BULLETIN

Chicago, July 9 — (UP) — Evidence which police interpreted as meaning that the Capone gang maintained a "torture chamber" in the basement of a Cicero night club was brought to light today with the discovery of two charred posts.

The posts coupled with the mysterious disappearance of several gangsters in the last few months gave rise to reports that enemies of the gang controlled by "Scarface Al" Capone may have undergone ordeals of fire.

The posts were about six feet high and were equipped with hooks suitable for binding victims. They were found by Alexander Jamie, special prohibition agent, who raided Ralph Capone's Montmartre night club in Cicero headquarters of "Scarface" Al's gang.

Jamie said the posts were imbedded six feet in the concrete floor of the basement. They did not support the floor above and both were deeply charred.

Coroner Herman N. Bundesen was notified of the discovery and indicated he would send Ferdinand Watzek, famous Viennese crime expert to the scene for a scientific analysis of the charred posts to ascertain whether any human sacrifices have been made by the gangsters.

One of the posts, Jamie said, was burned almost through and the hands were placed at the height of a man's knees and arms "the proper position," Jamie said, to bind a man.

Recently the police found evidence that gangsters maintained a crude crematory on the near north side and at that time it was pointed out that several gangsters had vanished from the haunts mysteriously. They have not reappeared since and this fact was immediately coupled today with the findings of the "torture chamber."

One of the missing gamblers is Leo Mongoven, formerly of Harmon Lee Company, enemy of the Capone gang; another is Benny Bennett, former New York gambler, who came out to show the Chicago gangsters some new tricks and hasn't been seen since.

Shortly after the murder of Alfred J. Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, the torso of a murdered man was taken from the drainage canal. Besides being mutilated it showed signs of having been scorched. Police surmised he might have died at the stake in the night club basement.

No identification ever was made. In March the body of John Rito, also an enemy of the Capones, was taken from the Chicago River. It also showed signs of torture and burning. Rito had served under the Genna brothers first but later went to cooking alcohol for the Moronites, traditional foes of the Capones.

Chicago, July 9 — (UP) — Three distinct "sweeping" investigations all intended to "rid Chicago of crime" and all resulting from the subway murder of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, Tribune reporter, moved steadily onward today toward the common goal.

The investigations were in the hands of the police, the churches and a new grand jury, which State's Attorney John A. Swanson has announced will investigate thoroughly not only the Lingle murder, but a alleged racketeering by newspapermen and alleged alliances between crime and politics as well.

A fourth investigating body, the special "Board of Strategy" headed by Charles Rathbun, Tribune attorney, conferred its activities to track down Lingle's slayers.

Investigate Police

Every police captain in the city was drawn into active participation in the already furious attack upon the underworld when Acting Commissioner John H. Alcock last night issued a demand that by July 20 every one of them give to him a written report detailing his knowledge of any collusion between policemen and gangsters.

Overshadowing all other developments was a controversy between the St. Louis Star and Swanson over the promised appearance of Harry T. Brundidge, Star reporter, before the new grand jury.

Brundidge, who wrote stories charging that other newspaper men were engaged in racketeering, is expected to come here voluntarily tomorrow to appear before the grand jury and explain his accusations.

Churches Warned

Swanson, however, wants to talk to the reporter before Brundidge goes before the grand jury. The St. Louis Star believes no such preliminary interrogation is necessary. Since Brundidge was out of the jurisdiction of a Cook county subpoena it appeared likely his wishes will be heeded.

The third investigating body, the

FRENCH TRANS-ATLANTIC AIR MAIL PLANE FORCED DOWN IN MID-OCEAN; FLIERS RESCUED

Leak In Oil Line Was Cause Of Failure Of Crossing

Dakar, Senegal, July 9 — (AP) — Jean Mermoz, noted French airman, on the first west to east trans-Atlantic air mail flight between South America and Africa, was forced to come down on the sea when well over half way across today.

He and his two companions, Leopold Gimme, radio operator, and Jean d'Abry, navigator, were rescued and the 600 pounds of air mail which they took aboard on leaving Natal, Brazil, yesterday, were saved.

Mermoz, three hours earlier, had discovered an oil leak which apparently was not serious, but two hours before he came down the oil pressure was dropped alarmingly and he sent a wireless message that he was heading toward the dispatch boat.

Police, one of several boats patrolling the route in case of emergency.

The police, being informed of Mermoz' trouble, started to the rescue and met the plane. She stood by and took aboard the three men and the mail. The mail was to be transferred to another dispatch boat and carried at full speed to Africa for relay by plane to Paris.

Mermoz came down in 7 degrees north latitude and 24 degrees west longitude, about 650 miles southwest of Dakar.

It was 7:45 A. M. French Meridian Time (2:45 A. M. E. S. T.) that Mermoz first reported the loss of oil. He did not explain the nature of the leak and apparently was confident it would not interfere seriously with his journey. He had enough gas to reach Dakar by 5 o'clock in the evening.

His landing was made at 10:20 A. M. after he had been in the air 14 hours and was well advanced on the last half of his trans-Atlantic journey. The weather was good and there was little wind.

American Woman Fined In Ireland

Belfast, Northern Ireland, July 9 — (AP) — An American woman whose name was given in court as Heloise Fellows of Lafayette, Ind., was today in her absence fined 100 pounds at Newry, County Down, on the charge of assaulting an Ulster customs officer at Gorahwood railroad station by throwing a tin of bath salts at him, splitting his ear.

Officer McAvish told the court that while examining luggage in the train, the woman kept pushing the salts in front of him saying: "Take duty on these." As he was leaving the train, he said, the tin was flung at him.

The Crown Solicitor said officials were unable to trace the woman as she was not known at the Belfast Hotel she gave as her address. Her name and address, he said, were obtained from her passport. It was stated that embarkation ports would be notified of the decision in the case.

MACDONALD IS FACING CRISIS OF GOVERNMENT

Lloyd George's Motion May Result In Fall Of His Ministry

BULLETIN

London, July 9 — (AP) — By a majority of only three votes, the MacDonald government today scraped through a decision on the finance bill which had been regarded as critical.

A Liberal amendment to the finance bill which had been considered might cause the downfall of the Laborite government was rejected by 278 votes to 275.

The MacDonald government was saved by four Liberals who voted for it.

A majority of the Liberals, supported by an exceptional number of Conservatives voted for the Liberal amendment by which it was proposed that no income tax should be placed on profits which could be proved to have been spent upon modernization or improvement of plants and machinery.

London, July 9 — (AP) — The ministry of Premier Ramsay MacDonald faced a crisis in the House of Commons today with its erstwhile friends, the Liberals, turned squarely against them in an attack of their own.

Given enough Liberal following and the usual Conservative anti-government vote, defeat of the government would seem inevitable. Tom Kennedy, chief government whip, said that such defeat would involve the ministry's fall.

The question at stake is an amendment to the finance bill involving exemption from income taxes on that part of affected companies' profits devoted to re-equipment of factories and replacement of plant machinery.

The amendment is David Lloyd George's own, a fact which political observers have been at loss to explain, since Mr. Lloyd George, wielding the balance of power, has much more to say in governmental matters than he would if it is necessary to go to the country in a new general election which might return a Conservative majority.

Among some of the political newsmongers the idea was advanced that the Liberals would not all vote with their leaders, who did not, indeed, it was alleged, wish them to do so, since his hope was merely to throw a scare into the government and emphasize its precarious position. It was commented that probably very few politicians wished a new general election just at this time.

The outcome, nevertheless, was uncertain, and for that reason was watched with more than usual interest.

C. B. Crawford And Mrs. Berger Called

Death invaded two Dixon homes shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon removing two well known and highly respected citizens of many years residence in this community—Calvin B. Crawford of 322 E. Third street and Mrs. Lloyd Berger of 1310 Third street—both of whom had been critically ill for some time. No arrangements for the funeral of either had been made at press time this afternoon and these details, with the obituaries, will be published later.

FOES OF TREATY PRESS FIGHT TO GET DOCUMENTS

But Hardly Expect President To Give Them Even If Requested

Washington, July 9 — (AP) — Advocates of the McKellar resolution calling on President Hoover for the international correspondence leading up to negotiation of the London naval treaty renewed their arguments at the opening of the Senate today while administration leaders pressed for an early vote.

After a bare quorum of 49 Senators answered the roll call, Senator Black, Democrat, Alabama, called for adoption of the resolution on the ground that it involved a right of the Senate and was not a question of public policy.

Treaty proponents were not so much concerned over the document resolution as they were over the delay it might cause in reaching a vote on the treaty itself.

Hale Has Long Speech

Senator Hale, Republican, Maine, chairman of the Naval committee, was waiting for a vote on the McKellar proposal with a 10,000 word speech against the treaty. He hoped to make the address before the day was over.

"This question of the informal negotiations transcends in importance the question of the treaty itself," Black said. "I voted for a favorable report on the treaty in the Senate. I expect to vote for it in the Senate. I shall vote, however, if a motion is made to that effect, to postpone a vote until the rights of the Senate have been recognized and respected."

The Alabamian contended the President was not the "custodian" of the files in the State Department and that the Secretary of State was responsible to Congress and not to the Chief Executive.

Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, author of the document resolution and an opponent of the treaty, placed in the record a letter from Mrs. William Cumming Story, a former president of the Daughters of the American Revolution, complimenting his opposition to the pact. She wrote she was sending letters to all Senators urging delay in ratification.

Foes Claim Victory

Opponents of the treaty were confident of enough votes to adopt the McKellar resolution. Several influential members of the group which favors the pact were willing to vote for the Tennessee measure, including Chairman Borah of the Foreign Relations committee.

At his suggestion, Senator Robinson, Arkansas, a delegate to the London conference, proposed an amendment which if approved would have the resolution ask Mr. Hoover to give the Senate the documents in question if he considered such a course "incompatible with the public interest."

McKellar refused to accept the amendment and it became involved in the debate. Under the usual parliamentary course, a vote on Robinson's proposal will precede the vote on the resolution itself.

There was no expectation in the Senate that the request in the event of a vote approving the McKellar resolution. McKellar said the matter would be ended if the President again declines to give over the documents.

Erie Gander, Said To Be 100, Is Dead

Erie, Ill., July 9 — (AP) — Death claimed another centenarian here today.

The deceased is the 106-year-old gander of the Misses Sara and Katherine Allen, claimed to be the oldest fowl in the world. Geese, which are noted for their longevity, often attain the age of 50 to 60 years.

The slaters, who vouch for the age of the gander, said it was raised in the east and brought to Rock Falls, Ill., by pioneers and later was taken by its owner to Nebraska. In 1884 it became the property of William H. Allen, and was returned to Illinois.

Originally gray in color, his plumage turned white with advancing age.

Condemnation Suits Filed In Co. Court

A long list of condemnation suits filed in the County Court by the Illinois Northern Utilities Company, against land owners, was set for hearing before a jury tomorrow, but continuance has been granted until next Tuesday. The suits have been brought for the purpose of securing a right of way for a high tension power transmission line from Dixon to Freeport, and are against land holdings in Lee, Ogle and Stephenson counties. All of the condemnation suits are to be tried in Dixon and approximately 50 services have been obtained in Lee county.

A much larger list of services was necessary in Ogle county where some delay was experienced in locating parties interested, which necessitated a continuance of the hearings.

Motorists who had been driven off the highway complained to the sheriff's office.

FISH FLIES APPEAR.

Fish flies swarmed about electric lights and display windows last night in swarms larger than has been experienced here in many years. Display windows which were lighted were matted with the pests. In gasoline service stations, employees attempted to avoid the swarms of flies by using red colored globes, which in past seasons is said to have been effective, but last evening, was unsuccessful. E. Edwards in the business district were covered this morning with dead flies whose life is said to last but 24 hours.

MIRTH ENDED QUICKLY.

Two Dixon ladies who had motored to the southeast part of the city to call upon friends Monday evening, suffered minor injuries in a most unusual manner. One of the ladies, in alighting from the rumble seat of the roadster, slipped and fell, bruising her arm and leg. Her companion burst forth in laughter at the awkward position in which she fell and a bridge of two teeth fell from her mouth to the cement sidewalk as she laughed heartily. Her mirth quickly abated, however, when she discovered that one of the false molars had broken into small bits when it came in contact with the cement walk.

Construction Band Shell Here Proposed

A proposal to erect a band shell in Dixon for the holding of public concerts was the subject of considerable discussion at the regular weekly meeting of the Dixon Kiwanis Club yesterday afternoon. Offers of donations for such purpose were made by some of the members who favored the action.

It was contended that the concerts furnished by the Boys' Band could not be heard from the court house square because of the noise from traffic passing on the

Marital Troubles

Of Hills Settled
Livingston, Mont., July 9—(AP)—For the second time, marital rifts in the family of Walter Hill, son of the late James J. Hill, railroad builder, apparently have been smoothed.
Dismissal of a divorce suit brought by Mrs. Mildred Hill, former Follies girl, against the son of the railroad magnate, is sought in an action filed yesterday in the District Court by counsel for the Hills. The petition also asks cancellation of cross-complaints filed by Hill.

Details of the reconciliation are not known, although it is said the couple had had their origin in a chance meeting of Hill and his wife and son Billy, on a train upon which they were returning to Montana. It was learned the Hills plan to establish a home in Seattle. Mrs. Hill left for that city ten days ago and her husband followed early this week. They have been married three years.

Mrs. Hill filed a suit for separation early in 1929, but differences were settled later, and the couple lived together until the filing of the present suit for divorce in October, 1929.

Orange City, Iowa

Man, Is Mob Victim
Orange City, Iowa, July 9—(AP)—John De Jong, 41, widower and father of five children, today told Sioux county officers he was captured by a band of men who tarred and feathered and left him nude in the streets here. He said he could recognize 17 of his attackers.

Sioux county officers said they expected to make arrests today. They said they believed the attack was the result of rumors involving De Jong in a local scandal.

De Jong said he was captured at the fair grounds, driven into the country, forced to undress and tarred and feathered. He said his attackers released him in the street without returning any of his clothing.

Miners' President

Guilty Of Contempt
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 9—(AP)—John L. Lewis, International President of the United Mine Workers of America, and other union officials were held guilty of violating an injunction issued by the Sangamon County Circuit Court, to restrain them from interfering with activities of the Illinois Mine Workers, in an opinion prepared by Master-In-Chancery Frank Trutter.

It was regarded as a hollow victory for the Illinois Mine Workers, inasmuch as no punishment was provided for. The opinion held that the Lewis followers, including A. T. Pace, of Harris, and former State Senator, William Speed, of Herrin, had been shown guilty, but inasmuch as they had intended no "contempt of court" there should be no punishment.

The opinion was formally presented Circuit Judge Briggie, who in the usual course, is expected to adopt it as the expression of the court.

A pair of locked handcuffs dangled from a chain, but William Sandlin, 26, store robber, who had been in them when the party left Danville, was gone. The bus did not stop during the trip.

ALL PETITIONS TO PARDON BODY
ARE CONSIDERED

Body Takes Pleas Made
At Tuesday Hearing
Under Advisement

Springfield, Ill., July 9—(UP)—Pleas of numerous men, convicted of murder in various parts of the state, were under consideration by the Board of Pardons today following hearings yesterday and last night during which dramatic and unusual appeals were made for clemency.

Mrs. Susella Hamblin, Rock Island, daughter of John Looney, former political leader and now serving a 14 year prison sentence on charges of murder in connection with the Rock Island vice cleanup of several years ago, made an eloquent plea for her father's liberty and offered new evidence in the shape of affidavits which tended to repudiate testimony at Looney's trial.

Si Hazlitt, Chicago and former Rock Island newspaperman, whose testimony helped convict Looney, admitted that he had perjured himself. He said his object was to "get" Lawrence Pedigo, Rock Island newspaperman indicted in the vice cleanup.

Hazlitt said threats were made two years ago to "take him for a ride" unless he signed the affidavit but that he refused because he feared going to jail for perjury.

He said he finally signed the affidavit a few weeks ago in "fear of death" and because the law of limitations (a prosecution for perjury had expired. He also said he had been offered a $200 bribe to sign it but had never received it.

Two other applications, those of George Holtsapple and George Buckley, convicted on charges of murder in the Rock Island vice cleanup, were also heard by the board. All were taken under advisement.

William J. Lawler, Springfield attorney, who helped to prosecute and send Brentz Washington, Springfield, Negro, to prison on charges of armed robbery, appeared before the board and pleaded for a pardon. He said that he had never been certain of Washington's guilt.

W. H. De Long, Champaign, asked the board to pardon Benjamin Ingram, sentenced to Chester for St. Clair county, on charges of armed robbery. De Long, a former convict, said he had had perfected a window and sash invention while they were in prison and gave the board a demonstration of the apparatus.

He pleaded for Ingram's release because he is a man planning to help society rather than returning to crime when outside the prison walls.

The board also heard the applications of Leon Brown and Laion Fisher, Chicago Negroes, sentenced to life July 25 for the slaying of Martin French, a policeman, during an alleged bank holdup, and took it under advisement. Leonard Shadlow, convicted with Brown and Fisher and also sentenced to die, was expected to file his petition for clemency today.

THREE 'SWEEPING' INVESTIGATIONS OF CRIME UNDER WAY

Chicago Church Federation, had before it a warning that some racketeering might be found within its own organizations and in professional uplift and reform movements.

This warning was made by Alderman Arthur P. Albert at the first session of the federation's own investigation of crime conditions, an investigation which resulted from the Lingle slaying.

"A Closed Incident"
St. Louis, Mo., July 9—(UP)—The St. Louis Star will not permit Harry T. Brundage, reporter, to appear before the Cook county State's Attorney for preliminary questioning in regard to charges of newspaper-racketeering made in his stories, Frank W. Taylor, Jr., Managing Editor, said in a statement to the United Press today.

The Star's statement follows: "Assistant State's Attorney William Rittenhouse today told the St. Louis Star that unless it would send its reporter, Harry T. Brundage, to Chicago for preliminary questioning, the State's Attorney's office would consider the matter a closed incident."

The Star adheres to its original offer to send Brundage before the Cook county grand jury without preliminary questioning.

In view of the Chicago State's Attorney's unwillingness to accept Brundage as a witness on the original terms proffered, the Star accepts Mr. Rittenhouse's statement that the matter is a closed incident."

Cardinal Vannutelli, ever an apostle of peace and goodwill, is said to have been responsible for the inauguration of negotiations looking toward a settlement of the age-old Roman question during the early years of the regime of Premier Mussolini.

In 1924, for the first time since the Pope was stripped of his temporal power in Rome, the head of the Italian government had a private talk of more than half an hour. Although the subject of their conversation was not made public, it was the general belief that the discussion included possible efforts to settle the historic controversy.

Cardinal Vannutelli was born December 5, 1838, at Genazzano in the diocese of Palestrina, of a noble family that had been conspicuous in that diocese. His brother, Serrino Vannutelli also was a cardinal and dean of the Sacred College at the time of his death in December, 1915. The grandfather of the two cardinals was Count Vannutelli, who was grandmaster of the household of Napoleon's sister, Princess Pauline Borghese, and afterward to her mother, Letitia Bonaparte.

MARINE CORPS'

COMMANDANT IS DEAD AT CAPITAL

Heart Disease Claims Famous Veteran Of Many Campaigns

Washington, July 9—(AP)—Major General Wendell C. Neville, a veteran of many hard-fought battles, who rose to the position of Commandant of the Marine Corps, is dead.

Heart disease ended the career of the famous soldier late yesterday at the summer home of his daughter, Mrs. John P. W. West, at Edgewater Beach, Maryland. He had been in poor health for several months.

Acting Secretary Jahncke of the Navy Department immediately appointed Brigadier General Ben H. Fuller Acting Commandant of the Corps. He had served as Assistant Commandant under General Neville. Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler became ranking officer of the Marines upon General Neville's death.

General Neville, as a young officer, took part in the Cuban campaign and served in China during the Boxer rebellion. In 1914 he commanded the Second Regiment in the occupation of Vera Cruz.

In France, he commanded the Fifth Marines and the Fourth Regiment in the campaigns of Soissons, St. Mihiel, the Champagne and the Meuse-Argonne. In these operations he acquired the sobriquet of "Follow-Me Neville."

General Neville, became Commandant of the Marine Corps with the rank of Major General on March 5, 1929.

THOSE WHO NEVER RETURNED

Eva G. Lambertson.
THERE'S peace, for the war is long over;
'Tis only a memory now.
The heroes who fought the fierce battles
Gone back to the pen or the plow.

We welcomed them home with rejoicing,
We gave them the honor well earned;
But, ah! Some Mothers were grieving
For those who have never returned.

Fame's trumpet pealed loud of their courage,
Acclaiming each valorous deed,
While Mothers were watching and praying,
And working to meet every need.

We were watching, and praying, and working,
While lights till the midnight were burned;
And now there are lonely hearts, aching
For those who have never returned.

From city and farmstead and range-land
They came, and they answered the call
That bade them face danger and death
And oh—how we honor them all!

Forsaking their ease and their pleasure,
The soldier's hard duties they learned.
Now, dearest of names that we treasure,
Are theirs, who have never returned.

—(Written for the Wyoming state meeting of War Mothers, Oct. 2, 1928.)

Fruit Prune Whip
1 cup seeded, cooked prunes
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup diced pineapple
1/2 cup white cherries
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten
5 tablespoons confectioner's sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Mix prunes, sugar, pineapple and cherries. Cook slowly 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Cool. Beat egg whites until stiff. Add confectioner's sugar and stir until creamy. Combine ingredients and add lemon juice. Pour into glass serving cups. Chill 3 hours or longer. Serve.

When spots or rings appear after cleaning with fluids, allow to dry and then hold over steam from teakettle. The steam will remove rings or spots.

Leftover fish or fowl can be combined with mashed potatoes and shaped into cakes and browned in the oven.

The Name Is Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.

Englewood, N. J., July 9—(AP)—The name is Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.
A young man who was born June 22 and has thrived marvelously for more than two weeks without a name, now has one.

A statement issued from the home of his grandfather, Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, where he was born, said the baby's parents had decided to call him after his father.

The announcement ended much speculation.
When Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh decided to name their son after his father, the baby became the third of his line to bear the name of Charles Augustus, and entitled to be known as Charles Augustus Lindbergh III.

Until the death of his father, long a Congressman from the Sixth Minnesota District, Colonel Lindbergh was Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., and the Colonel's mother now prefers to be known as Mrs. Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Sr. rather than as Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh.

The first Charles Augustus Lindbergh in American annals was brought to the United States from Sweden as a seven months old baby and went to Congress from Little Falls, Minn., in 1907.

THE LOWELL PARK ROAD.

It is a great shame that the road leading to Lowell Park cannot be oiled and the dust nuisance thereby abated.

The road is under county control, so the township of Dixon cannot do anything about it. It would be entirely proper for the county to oil the road anyway, because the park, which is maintained at the expense of the city, is patronized and enjoyed by people from all over the county. The park board annually oils the roads within the park.

In the old days we expected quantities of dust when motoring, and went prepared for it, but the modern concrete pavements and the oiled stone and gravel roads have spoiled us. In these modern times it is not necessary to put up with the discomforts that we used to accept without complaint.

FLYING FOR A RECORD.

It is a little hard to join hands with those solemn commentators on current events who profess to be terribly, terribly bored by the record-breaking endurance flight of the Hunter brothers in their City of Chicago airplane.

To be sure, these people are probably quite correct when they point out that the value of this feat to aviation is practically nil. They are probably correct when they say it is simply a "stunt," promoted for personal gain by young men who might better have been doing something more useful. They are probably correct in complaining that this flight will breed other endurance flights, so that every idle aviator in the land will be buying a basket of sandwiches and sailing off in the effort to keep away from the ground longer than anyone else has done.

These things are very likely perfectly true; yet, for all that, we have a vague feeling that these tired, nerve-wracked young flyers have fully earned all the plaudits and all the money that they are going to get.

Their flight wasn't really useful? Well, a great many citizens of this republic find themselves in calling that deserve the same comment. . . . There is, for instance, the business of writing editorials. Besides, there is a good bit of unemployment in the land, and we often tend to go in for efficiency a little too strongly any how. So why shouldn't four brothers set out to break the endurance flight record if they feel like it?

After all, the thing was rather exciting to watch. There is something fascinating about the thought of two young men staying off of the earth for upwards of 19 days. We may be used to it, but it is a sort of miracle, none the less. No living human being ever did it before. Even to have dreamed of such a thing a century ago would have marked a man as being in league with the devil.

Furthermore, the young flyers did, after all, risk their lives. Piloting an airplane calls for keen, steady nerves, clear eyes and a sound physique, unless the army and navy and Department of Commerce are all wrong in their requirements. When you read of those lads drinking quarts of black coffee in a frantic effort to stay awake, and taking their airplane around through the darkness while they fought off fatigue, tired muscles and frayed nerves, you cannot help admiring them.

On top of all of this, moreover, is the fact that this sort of thing does have a practical value for aviation, despite the complaints of the critics. We need planes that are so dependable that they can almost be treated with contempt. Every endurance flight of this kind proves—and the proof is needed—that we are beginning to get that sort of planes. When two men can take an ordinary plane and keep it off the ground for more than a fortnight, the capabilities of the average airplane must be pretty high.

To sum it all up, we think these Hunter brothers deserve the applause and the money their flight has won for them. These lofty criticisms of their achievements give us a bit of a pain.

With the announcement that intelligence tests were given cats at Columbia University and that music classes were started there for children under five, speculation is aroused as to whether the institution has become nursery, menagerie or both.

Another astrologer declares that the Lindberghs will have a hard time preventing their baby from becoming an actor. If he takes after his father, he'll never make a go of the talkies.

Mosquitoes, a scientist says, bite light-haired people more readily than brunets. Which leads us to suspect there are few Swedes in New Jersey.

Since starting with the caravan the bunch had had a chance to scan a lot of open country and the scenes had been real fine. The mules still had a heap of pep and proved it by the way they'd step. In fact all things had turned out great. No one had cause to whine.

But Clowny seemed to think that he must be impatient as could be, so while they all sat in a home of funny Persian make he said, "Oh, let's be on our way. I'd like to reach Tehran today. Just how far is that town from here and how long will it take?"

"Well, let me see now. Not so far," replied the Travel Man. "We are about ten miles from Tehran. We can make it pretty quick. Hop in the baskets now, with care, and hang on tight till we get there. Gee, I should think of riding you would all be rather sick."

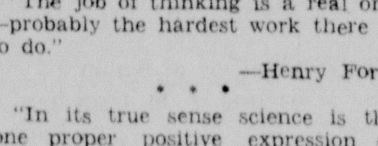

"Oh, no," snapped Scouty. "This is fun. We'll gladly ride till day is done. And then we'll all be ready for a very good night's rest."

The mass of good we're crossing now just makes me want to sleep somehow. We're lucky, 'cause the weather we have had has been the best."

Soon Coppy whispered, "Clowny's gone. I'll bet he'll sleep until the dawn if we just leave him where he is. I guess he's all tired out." It wasn't long until someone exclaimed, "Our trip is almost done. I see a small town just ahead and it's Tehran, no doubt."

It happened that the guess was right. They reached the town and what a sight. Some little Persian youngsters came a-running down the street. Wee Coppy shouted, "Howdy-do! We'll hop right out and play with you. Most any little fellows we are always glad to meet."

HOWE'S BIRTH

On July 9, 1819, Elias Howe, inventor of the sewing machine, was born in Spencer, Massachusetts.

After working for his father, who was a miller, Howe went to Lowell to work in a cotton machinery manufacturing. Two years later he lost his job on account of the financial panic, but got another in a machine shop in Boston.

In 1845 he produced his sewing machine but, despite its obvious advantages, met with bitter opposition. For the next nine years he was desperately poor. He made a trip to England in the hope of being able to interest capitalists. He was unsuccessful, being obliged to sell the English rights to the machine for 250 pounds.

When he returned to this country he found that his patent had been infringed and that many sewing machines were already in use. He therefore began action to establish his patent. After five years of litigation he won his case and thereafter was one of the leading manufacturers in the United States. He shortly became a millionaire. In 1867 he received the gold medal and the cross of the Legion of Honor at Paris.

THAT progressive merchants persistently advertise their wages and, by so doing, have no "dust collectors" to offer you.

Their stores are attractive and their goods conveniently displayed. It is a pleasure to buy from them. Their merchandise is made for dependable service. It is the kind they are proud to sell.

It is decidedly more convenient and economical to buy from the home merchants who advertise than it is a peddler or a catalogue.

You can depend upon facts advertised by local merchants. Their quality and service never vary. The real way to build a more prosperous city is to develop among the people a friendly—a real feeling of friendliness, a spirit of cooperation toward better business for the home city so every dollar earned there will stay in the community and work for all.

Local merchants will serve you the way you want to be served by giving you the best in quality and service.

Daily Health Talk

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT YOUR CHILD?
By Dr. Henry F. Vaughan,
Commissioner, Department of Health
Detroit, Mich.

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. The headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G Street, N. W., Washington D. C.)

This is a pertinent question which every parent ought to ask himself. To be sure, you know that his eyes are blue and that he has brown hair, that he washes his face and hands, that he plays around the neighborhood and gets himself into the usual amount of trouble and that he seems to be having a good time, to be happy and as far as you can tell, well. This much every parent knows but what do you know of the actual working of his human machine, the most intricate of all machines. As you of course know, used automobiles are sold not at all on the basis of appearances but rather on the age of the car. The reason for this is that appearances cannot be relied upon. A car which has a good appearance but which is a number of years old may run perfectly as far as you are able to determine, but you cannot be sure that any of the parts may give away within a short time. The same thing is true of the human machine. It may appear to be functioning perfectly but there may be, and unfortunately very often are, minor difficulties with the mechanism which is not detected and taken care of may result in permanent injury.

No parent can truthfully say that he knows the condition of his child unless that child has had a complete physical examination of comparatively recent date.

I have just been looking over some of the examination blanks which have come in as a result of our program of health examinations for children from 2 to 7. Here is one child of 5 years of age who has a heart condition due to infected tonsils which had not been recognized and which had been gradually poisoning the youngster until he now has an impairment of heart function. This is but one example of many I might cite. Figures gathered over a good many years show definitely that 70 per cent of children entering school have some physical defect. Obviously these defects have developed very early in childhood.

There isn't any question of doubt.

ITCHING TORTURE ENDS
when soothing Zemo is used

It's remarkable how quickly summer itching vanishes when Zemo touches the skin. Use it for rashes, bites, ivy-poisoning and itching, peeling toes. This far-famed antiseptic draws out heat and pain and quickly soothes away irritation. Use safe, healing Zemo freely to clear up ugly pimples and dandruff. It's invisible and odorless. Just the thing for sunburn and other summer skin irritations. Have Zemo handy always. Any druggist. 35c, 60c, $1.00.

but that if every person, young and old, had a complete physical examination at least once a year, at least ten years would be added to the average length of life, to say nothing of the suffering and misery which would be thus avoided. Many, if not most, of the heart of the rheumatism and many cases of nephritis, develop because of infections of early childhood which have been over-looked or not attended to. Most cases of tuberculosis and many of cancer could be avoided by the universal practice of having complete periodic physical examinations and by following the physicians' advice given as a result of such examinations. In the earlier years of life nearly all of the physical defects which may be found come under the general classification of "easily corrected."

JONES AGAINST FIELD IN GOLF CLASSIC DOPE

Is Favored To Trim His 146 Rivals In National Open

By PAUL R. MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Minneapolis, July 9.—(AP)—America's big parade of golfing greats went through their final rehearsals for the National Open championship at old Interlachen today as the world of golfdom doubtfully wondered if it included a shotmaker capable of stopping the triumphant march of the one and only Bobby Jones.

Ever since Bobby first trooped out of Atlanta bent for conquest almost a decade ago, he has been a threat to win the most coveted of all American golf crowns. But this time fresh from his brilliant foreign victories, he stood out the most prohibitive favorite ever to compete for any golfing diadem.

It was Jones against the field as never before.

Probably the smartest National Open field in 36 years opposed him. Yet Bobby was on top of the smartest, if not soundest, game the royal and ancient sport has ever known. The championship Interlachen course was admirably suited to his shots and back of it all was a burning ambition to sweep before him the major championships on this side of the Atlantic as he has done in England.

Has 146 Rivals

Hope springs eternal, however, and it was high in the hearts of many of Bobby's 146 rivals, who will fight against him on the 72 hole medal battle which opens tomorrow. Some have turned in good practice rounds and several have reputations for campaigning brilliantly.

This was particularly true of the veteran Walter Hagen. Back from an exhibition tour throughout Japan and Australia, the "Hag" had adopted somewhat of an air of mystery. He shot a 32, four under par, going out Monday and then folded up the rest of the way, satisfied.

Another of the leading threats in the championship who has won the title and who likes Interlachen was Tommy Armour. The Scot has one of the finest iron games in golf and Interlachen was built to order for a master of the irons.

Not So Rugged

From the brilliant assaults already made by the field on the championship course, it did not appear to measure up to Oakmont or Olympia Fields number four, former National Open scenes, in ruggedness. Yet it is laid replete with pitfalls for the golfer who does not hit his shots almost perfectly. The fairways are lightning fast and narrow, fringed with rough. The greens, on the other hand, are slow and elevated and require not only sure putting but sure pitches. It isn't overly long extending 6,672 yards, and only one water hole of consequence splits the fairway—on the 485 yard ninth. Par for the stretch is 72.

Forecasts of the winning total today ranged from 285 to 295 with 288 or perfect par the more likely.

A problem of galleries, which may reach very serious proportions insofar as the contestants are concerned, confronted tournament officials. Between 12,000 and 16,000 or more are expected to follow Jones on his rounds, but the fairways are so narrow on the course that the crowd either will bulge on to other fairways or crowd back to oak trees slowing other twosomes. After the first hole there is a big danger of fairway crowding that may tax the contestants as well as the marshals.

Chick Evans Reports

All entrants except three American-Walker Cup players, Dr. O. F. Willing of Portland, Oregon, Roland MacKenzie of Washington, and Francis Oulmet of Boston, open champion in 1913, will compete. They withdrew because of business reasons and much desired rest. Charles "Chick" Evans, Chicago amateur who won the title at Minnehaha in 1916 with a 286, the lowest score in the open's history, came in late yesterday unannounced and took his practice round over Minnehaha instead of Interlachen.

As the contestants came out for their final practice round today, they had a record to shoot at already as produced from their field. Yesterday in defiance to a scorching sun, Henry Cluel, of Stratford, Conn., and Whiffy Cox of Brooklyn, toured the course with a pair of 69's, three under par. They equalled the course record and topped by one stroke the best practice rounds turned in by Jones, George Von Elm and a few others.

Another hot day, with the temperature ranging around 90, was expected by late this afternoon, basking the fairways even more and adding to physical worries.

Amsterdam—Apparently unconcerned over the controversy regarding his inclusion on the United States Davis Cup team, William Tilden, today continued his attention to the Dutch tennis championships, and refused to discuss his future plans.

Tilden won his opening round matches yesterday, defeating Hendrix Van Riemsdyk, of Holland, 6-2, 6-1, 6-2, in the singles and teaming with Dr. Daniel Prenn, of Germany, to defeat Eduard Croes and Eduard Serkies of Holland in the doubles, 6-1, 6-3, 6-1.

London—American athletes have stripped England of many of her prized sport trophies, but the Wimbledon championship cups—symbols of world tennis supremacy—will remain in Britain.

The situation was brought to light yesterday when photographers asked Mrs. Helen Willis Moody to pose with the Wimbledon championship cup before she sailed for the United States.

"I've never seen the Wimbledon singles championship cup," Mrs. Moody said. "I suppose there is one but as far as I remember it never has been presented to me, although I've won it four successive times and have been wondering what it looked like."

Pressed for an exclamation, Wimbledon officials said the names of the winners are engraved upon the trophies each year, but that the cup remains at Wimbledon.

ROSENBLOOM IS FINDING TITLE WHITE ELEPHANT

He Can't Find Opponents To Fight For Light Heavyweights' Crown

BY DIXON STEWART.
United Press Staff Correspondent.
New York, July 9.—(UP)—Two weeks reign as undisputed world light heavyweight champion has convinced Maxie Rosenbloom that his two-year battle to win the title was a waste of effort and he is ready to follow the example of his predecessors, Tommy Loughran and Jack Delaney, and voluntarily relinquish the crown.

Maxie found that winning the title had deprived him of a means of livelihood. He can find no competition in his own class and one of the New York Commission's foolish rules prevents him from stepping out of his class to fight heavier men.

Rosenbloom spends his money even faster than he makes it and must keep fighting to remain in funds for his career as the "good time Charlie" of Broadway night life. He is willing to defend his title but can find no promoter willing to match him with any of the contenders—all of whom he has defeated one or more times in the past two years.

Maxie plans to visit the state athletic commission tomorrow and ask permission to engage in overweight bouts. If permission is refused he says he will give up the title.

"I suppose I could get work in other states," said Rosenbloom, "but I'd rather give up the title and fight heavyweights here than keep it and fight outside of New York. If the commission refuses my request I'll waive the championship."

Rosenbloom applied for permission to meet heavyweights at the last commission meeting but was refused permission even to go through with bouts contracted before he won the title.

Commissioner William Muldoon told him he would have to fight men of his own size and when Maxie retorted that he had "licked them all" Muldoon instructed him to "lick them all over again."

It took Rosenbloom two years to prove his right to the championship and in so doing he exhausted the division. He defeated Jimmy Slattery, Larry Johnson, Petelato, Jimmy Braddock, Yale Okun, Joe Sekyra, Oak Till, Joe Anderson, Charley Belanger, Tiger Payne, Larry Williams and Leo Lomski and there are no other men in the division capable of giving him a contest.

Local promoters are uninterested in retaining Rosenbloom with any of the men he already has defeated, although they are eager to match him with heavyweights.

GALLANT FOX IS READY FOR BIG RACE SATURDAY

A Work Out Yesterday Is Proof Great Horse Is In Condition

By CHAS. W. DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
Chicago, July 9.—(AP)—Gallant Fox, wonder horse of the 1930 turf season, is ready for the richest three-year-old stake of the year—the Arlington Classic—carrying $70,000 in added money, to be decided at Arlington Park Saturday afternoon.

This was indicated today following a dazzling workout yesterday in which the Fox with Earl Sande in the saddle romped a mile and a furlong in 1:50 2-5.

The son of Sir Gallahad III, French stallion, ran the mile in 1:37 4-5.

His time was as fast as horses ever run in workouts, and for the mile and an eighth, the distance of the classic, he was faster than the old Arlington track record, broken by Blue Larkspur's sensational 1:49 2-5 on July 4.

The super-horse never looked better and Sande was smiling as he jumped off the saddle.

Fox 1 to 2 favorite
Gallant Fox probably will enter the race as a 1 to 2 favorite. If victorious, he will move close to the record-breaking earnings of Zev, which had a grand total of $313,639. Gallant Fox, winner of the Woods Memorial, the Prekness, the Kentucky Derby, the Belmont Stakes and the Dwyer Stakes in succession this year, has won $210,000 to date. If he gallops to victory in the classic, he will add about $80,000 to the purses of his owner, William Woodward, of New York.

Indications are that a field of ten will start in Saturday's race. The other probable starters are: Gallant Knight, Caruso, Black Majesty, Breeding Thru, High Foot, Plucky Play, Dark Sea, Ned O. Snowflake, Spinach, Crucifixion, Xenofol and Galladay.

Gallant Knight, the Audry farm 3-year-old, which won both the Latoria Derby and the Kentucky Derby, is figured as Gallant Fox's most dangerous rival. He worked a mile and a quarter yesterday in 2:06 3-5, finishing fresh and with speed in reserve.

Baseball Gossip

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer
One reason why the Boston Braves are still in the thick of the National League battle is Shortstop Walter James Vincent Maranville, otherwise known as "Rabbit." This little baseball giant, who has spent 18 of his 37 summers playing major league ball, is having one of the best seasons of his long career.

When he was one of the main cogs of Boston's amazing team of 1914, his batting average was only .246 and his mark for his 18 major league years is .262, but this season he is hitting above the 300 mark and is fielding right along with the league's best. When the Braves stepped out yesterday to trounce the leading Brooklyn Robins, 4 to 1, Maranville merely made two of Boston's nine hits, scored once, handled eight fielding chances without an assist and started three of Boston's four double plays.

The shortstop had some assistance in stopping the Robins and leaving them only a half game ahead of the idle Chicago Cubs. Tom Zachary, who was considered too old for the American League this season, pitched a great game, shutting out the Robins except for Johnny Frederick's homer while Wally Berger came through with his 24th circuit blow of the year, gaining a tie with Hack Wilson and Chuck Klein for the National League lead.

Completing the National League's day, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia made it a bad day for the first division. The Phillies humbled the New York Giants, 8 to 1, and the Pirates kept the St. Louis Cardinals a game and a half back of the third place Giants by slamming out a 10 to 5 victory.

Washington continued to lead the American League parade with its ninth straight victory. The Senators beat out the Boston Red Sox, 6 to 5, and finally gained a tie with the Athletics for the top where games are concerned. The world's champions lost a half game by dividing their double header with the New York Yankees.

George Walberg proved his sore arm something of a myth against the Yankees in the first game, holding them to three hits for a 4 to 0 triumph. Red Ruffing kept pace with him for the last 8½ innings after the Athletics had driven Henry Johnson to cover. The second contest was something of a slugfest with George Pipgras outlasting four Athletics hurlers for a 9 to 4 victory.

Chicago's White Sox rose a notch in the American League standing, going from seventh to sixth place as Ted Lyons gave them a 3 to 2 victory over Detroit while the St. Louis Browns were taking a 12 to 6 beating at the hands of the Cleveland Indians. Lyons not only pitched effectively against Detroit but drove in two of the runs with a triple in the second inning. The Indians showed a considerable recovery from their slump, by hammering three Brownie pitchers for 14 hits, including two homers while young Mel Harder pitched with sufficient effectiveness to score his seventh victory of the year.

MOONEY, BITTER, TO CONTINUE TO FIGHT SENTENCE

Refusal Of California's Governor To Grant A Pardon A Blow

San Quentin State Prison, Calif., July 9.—(UP)—Thin-haired, stoop-shouldered Tom Mooney, his face lined with the misery brought by 14 years of convict life, today walked mechanically through his duties in "The City of Grey Walls"—San Quentin prison.

Bitterness was written in his face and rejection in every line of his body, clad in the loose-fitting garb of a prison "trusty."

Only a few hours had elapsed since he had been informed that his present hope for freedom had been denied when Governor C. C. Young refused to grant him a pardon in his conviction of participation in the 1916 Preparedness Day bombing in San Francisco.

Bitter though he was, Mooney was prepared to fight once more for his freedom along a new course as indicated by the Governor's statement in urging the Supreme Court to reopen the case of Warren K. Billings if it was possible to question witnesses who said they testified falsely at the trial.

"This would be just as I should desire to do in the case of Mooney," the Governor added.

Billings, convicted with Mooney, also was denied a pardon by the state Supreme Court.

Retracted Identification.

As in the report of the Supreme Court, Governor Young's statement dwelt at length upon the testimony of John McDonald, a waiter, who identified Mooney and Billings as implicated in the bombing but who later retracted the identification.

It was suggested in a separate report of Associate Justice John W. Ehenk of the Supreme Court that further light might be shed on the case by questioning McDonald and other witnesses.

"In view of Justice Shenk's observations I would most respectfully suggest to the members of the Supreme Court that, should McDonald or any other material witness who has repudiated his former testimony appear before them for the purpose of proving such repudiations are trustworthy, and that their former testimony was perjured, it may be only just and right to consider the propriety of giving a hearing to such witnesses in the case of Billings, just as I should desire to do in the case of Mooney," the Governor said.

"Until some further light is shed upon the case which I do not possess I manifestly must accept the conclusion of the Supreme Court and the advisory pardon board," the Governor concluded.

Previously he had been interviewed by newspapermen in the Warden's outer office.

DRAFT QUESTION UP AGAIN TODAY IN MAJORS MEET

Baseball Magnates Are In Session In Chicago To Discuss It

Chicago, July 9.—(AP)—Considering the situation so important as to warrant the unprecedented procedure of a joint session in mid-summer, club owners of the two Major Leagues gathered today to discuss present and prospective relations with the minors, especially in connection with the draft or "selective system." The possibility loomed that the magnates, in mood for drastic action, would serve an ultimatum on minor league forces, leading either to a new agreement or a wider breach than now appears to exist.

All sixteen big league clubs were expected to be represented at today's meeting called for noon at the Drake Hotel with Commissioner Landis presiding.

For some time it has been no secret in baseball circles that the "majors" and "minors" were at loggerheads over the matter of optioning players as well as over the draft, readjustment of the old major-minor agreement has been attempted several times but without results entirely satisfactory to either side.

A present five minor leagues do not expect the full draft system, by which the majors annually pluck off desired talent at stipulated prices. These five are the American Association, International League, Pacific Coast League, Western League and Three-Irre League. They submit only to a modified draft, by which the majors can select only from players who have had major league experience. The object and result of this has been to enable the minors to get fancier prices for promising youngsters. So far as they have been concerned, all five of these minors have rebuffed major league attempts to restore the full selective system.

Under the present optional clause, another much-mooted issue, each major league club is permitted to farm out only eight players with strings attached. All others sent out must be unconditionally released. The major league fight aims at an increase in the optional player limit. On this point, complicated by reputed "gentlemen's agreements" and the "chain store" system of ownership, club owners have clashed with Commissioner Landis as well as the minor league powers.

The whole situation has reached a point where we felt decided action was called for by the major leagues," said John A. Heyder, president of the National League. "The major leagues from time to time have made proposals to the minors without receiving positive answers. One of the purposes of this meeting is to set forth the major league position clearly and give the minors an opportunity to consider it in advance of their annual winter conference."

One Killed And Nine Hurt In N. Y. Tunnel

New York, July 9.—(UP)—Tons of dirt and rock, loosened by a recent rainstorm, poured down on 20 men working in a water supply tunnel 500 feet below street level in the Bronx early today, killing one man and injuring nine others, two of them seriously.

The only warning of impending accident received by the men, filling dirt buckets in the deep tunnel, was the cracking of timbers which held up the roof. As they dashed for the lift, the shoring gave way suddenly, and they were caught under the avalanche. Ten of the men dug their way to the lift and gave the alarm.

Police, aided by workmen, finally dug out the nine injured men and the body of Michael Kelly, 27, of Yonkers.

New York Second, Chicago Fourth Of World Cities

New York July 9.—(AP)—Complete census figures in the five boroughs published today showed New York holding its place as the second city of the world in population, exceeded only by London.

The final count gives the American metropolis 6,958,792 as compared to 7,742,212, the last available figure, for Greater London.

The population of New York exceeds that of any of the capitals of continental Europe, Berlin being third in the world list. Paris has 2,838,416. Chicago with a 1930 population of 3,373,753 is second in the United States and fourth ranking City in the world.

During the decade since the 1922 census New York has acquired 1,338,744 additional inhabitants, a 22.2 per cent increase from the 1920 figure of 5,620,048 being a gain of 24 per cent.

Figures for the five boroughs show a decided migration from Manhattan to Brooklyn, the Bronx and Queens. Brooklyn is the largest borough with a total of 2,596,154 a gain of 28.6 per cent. Manhattan dropped from 2,284,103 to 1,856,439, a loss of 18 per cent.

Queens borough on Long Island had the greatest increase in population during the 10 year period, jumping 130 per cent which gave it a total of 1,082,212. The Bronx gained 73 per cent, going from 732,016 in 1920 to 1,266,735 in the present count. Richmond (Statens Island) is counted at 157,253, a gain of 35 per cent over its 1920 population.

Members Of Kiwanis Club Agree With Supervisor Or D. H. Spencer

Lee county expends approximately $75,000 annually in the care of its poor and, unfortunately, Supervisor David H. Spencer of Dixon township told members of the Dixon Kiwanis Club at their regular weekly meeting Tuesday afternoon, which he addressed on the subject, "The Other Side of Dixon." In the course of his remarks the supervisor strongly opposed the practice of permitting transient beggars to roam the streets of Dixon and solicit funds from its citizens.

"Fifty per cent of the citizens of Lee county find the present taxes a heavy burden," the speaker said, "and I am bitterly opposed to the practice of permitting transient beggars soliciting aid on the streets of Dixon, when its citizens pay heavy taxes for the care of the county's unfortunate and are then solicited to assist these strangers, many of whom are in better financial condition than those who donate to their appeal. All of them have a home where they should be cared for."

Quoted Figures.

Supervisor Spencer quoted figures to illustrate the immense proportions to which the care of the poor of the county has grown. He first cited the sum of $15,229 expended at the County Home near Eldena. Some assets were realized, he stated in the sale of produce from this source.

A total of $9,580 was expended in Lee county last year for blind pensions, he stated. Some of the claims were lawful while others were unlawful, but the speaker assured his listeners that a general "house-cleaning" had been under way among the county board members and that many of the unlawful claims had been eliminated.

In one instance Supervisor Spencer told of a blind pensioner who was paid one dollar a day by the county who filed away for a livelihood and was also a land owner.

In mother's pensions, Lee county expended $10,983 last year in the payment of the claims which are governed by statute, he said. Among these, the speaker stated, were found many deceptions and the practice was greatly abused. He added that a careful watch had been maintained upon all applications, however, and that several were now being held up while investigations were being made.

The county tuberculosis sanatorium fund, was also cited by the speaker who told of one instance in the county where a wealthy citizen and land owner sent a member of his family to a sanatorium for treatment at the expense of the taxpayers of the county.

Pauper Claims.

In pauper claims, the county paid out $15,000 last year and under this department of relief to the county's poor, many rank impostors had been found. The county also paid out $4,653 to orphanages for the care of children, he told his listeners. "The total amount expended represented $73,478.00, Supervisor Spencer said, and this does not include all of the charitable work that is carried on in the county."

Four charitable relief measures, he stated had been added to the taxpayers within the last 18 years, naming the mothers pension act,

Message From Famous Spiritualist Predicted Then

London, July 9.—A message from the spirit of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle as his body is lowered into the grave Friday was predicted today by some London spiritualist circles.

The novelist's family, however, did not encourage this forecast of the moment when they will hear from their deceased relative, although they expressed continued confidence he will get in touch with them almost immediately.

The author's son, Adrian, told the Daily Sketch: "My mother is confident that he will reveal himself shortly. This wonderful faith buoyed her. She is beautifully radiant. I am certain that if she did not believe in spiritualism, she would not have survived Sir Arthur's death an hour."

"A seance may be necessary to establish the communication. When we do hear from him the communication will be treated as private unless which is quite possible, he wishes to give the message to the world, in which case whatever he says will be published."

The son denied current reports that a secret code had been arranged, stating that "we should know very quickly if any spirits were impersonating my father." He intimated that his mother would rely upon her knowledge of Sir Arthur's little quirks of nature through her years of intimacy with him to guard her against perpetration of a spirit fraud.

Sir Arthur's body will be interred in a grave in the garden of his home at Crowborough, Sussex, a few yards from the outdoor study where he spent many days devising the plots of his stories on Sherlock Holmes.

There will be no church ritual, and the burial ceremony will be entirely conducted at the grave.

CONTROVERSY IN REPUBLICAN HIGH CIRCLES REPORTED

Has To Do With Selecting Successor To National Chairman

Washington, July 9.—(UP)—An old fashioned political controversy among party leaders over a successor to Claudius H. Huston as Chairman of the Republican National Committee has developed as a result of plans for Huston's retirement, the United Press was informed today on unquestionable authority.

A compromise, however, is expected to be reached within a day or two, with friends of Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio withdrawing from the movement for appointment of Fess to succeed Huston.

A temporary appointee acceptable to the various leaders is likely to be agreed upon, it was indicated. The choice may be Ralph Williams of Oregon, now serving as vice chairman.

The leading opponent of Fess' selection is Senator George Moses of New Hampshire, Chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign committee. Moses has elected to oppose Huston's immediate resignation despite the disfavor with which most party leaders have viewed the Chairman since the Senate Lobby committee's disclosures concerning his handling of Muscle Shoals lobbying funds.

Friends of Moses are understood to be urging his selection as chairman, but Fess' backers are equally unwilling to accept the New Hampshire Senator.

Had it not been for this complex situation, Huston's resignation might already have been announced, those who are informed concerning the matter say. It is their opinion, however, that a satisfactory adjustment will be made in time so a peaceful atmosphere may pervade Huston's office here tomorrow when party leaders meet to discuss plans for the forthcoming congressional election campaign.

Unless a settlement is reached, the dissension may come to the surface at the meeting, as many of those invited have indicated privately their disinclination to proceed with campaign plans until Huston is out.

This situation, it was stated authentically, explains Huston's public reticence concerning his intentions to resign, his private intimations that he might continue as chairman a while longer, and President Hoover's silence concerning the matter.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN CHICAGO CRIME WAR FROM INSIDE

Series Of Special Articles To Tell Of Inside Moves

Editor's Note.—What's happening in Chicago? Has the underworld declared war on the newspapers? Are police reporters in league with the underworld? What is the real significance of the Lingle murder?—These and similar questions are being asked by newspaper readers as a result of the flood of confusing and sometimes conflicting developments which have occurred since the murder of Alfred J. Lingle, police reporter for the Chicago Tribune. Following is the first in a special series of United Press dispatches from Chicago designed to clarify the moving crime picture in the light of the Lingle murder's many ramifications.

By EARL J. JOHNSON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, July 9.—(UP)—Occasionally in the history of Chicago crime one murder becomes "Lacause Celebre" of a furious attack on the underworld.

Such a murder five years ago was the killing of Assistant State's Attorney William McSwiggin.

Such a crime was the Moran Gang massacre on St. Valentine's Day in 1929.

Such a crime also was the slaying four weeks ago, of Alfred J. Lingle, police reporter for the Chicago Tribune.

But the Lingle murder promises to dwarf all previous gang killings in the event of its ramifications, in its significance as signalling a final showdown on whether Chicago can eliminate the evils which have given her a bad name.

Present New Problems

At the same time it presents problems with which Chicago has not had to deal before. It casts suspicion upon other reporters for the very newspaper which has led the fight against organized crime and has set the papers themselves to sniping at each other's motives. This and other developments will be reported in subsequent dispatches. Today's is devoted in the main to Lingle, the reporter-racketeer, and to the murder which ended his mysterious dual career.

Aside from the private activities in which he is now believed to have played such questionable roles, "Jake" Lingle was the type of metropolitan newspaper reporter that has been exploited on the stage in recent seasons. He was familiar with police and criminals. He seldom wrote the stories he "covered," but telephoned his facts to re-write men in the city room of his paper. Occasionally he was asked to make private investigations of crimes or of suspected criminals for the files of his paper or for the Tribune, under which appeared in the Tribune under the signatures of more talented writers. For the better part of the 18 years that Lingle worked for the Tribune he was assigned to these tasks.

Thus, when a wiry gunman with a silk glove on the left hand with which he wielded his pistol, shot Lingle in the back of the head in a pedestrian subway beneath Michigan Boulevard on June 12, it was natural to assume that gangland was attempting to intimidate the press. The Tribune itself voiced the theory that its reporter had been slain because he knew too much about gangland, that gangland was attempting to intimidate the press for exposing gang crime. The Tribune accepted the challenge on that basis.

Light Came Slowly

Then, slowly at first, light began to fall on other phases of the crime. Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Tribune, heard rumors that Lingle was no Don Melet, that he lived in a hotel suite far too expensive for a police reporter.

Investigation of his private life, his finances, his habits, revealed Lingle as more racketeer than reporter. It was learned that he had used his position with the powerful Tribune to act as a go-between for gangsters with the police. He was so friendly with former Police Chief William Russell that the two were reported to have had a joint brokerage account which at one time was built up to $200,000. At the same time he was an intimate of Scarface Al Capone and was Capone's house guest at Miami, Florida. His income was estimated at $600,000 a year.

These revelations set investigators to following new trails. The theory that Lingle was killed to intimidate the press was abandoned. It seemed more likely that he had been killed for violating some law of the underworld.

It was inevitable that the Lingle murder, in the light of his gang and police connections, would have far reaching effects on the Chicago anti-crime war. These effects and the personalities they involve will be the subjects of further dispatches in this series.

Rhinelanders Will Settle Legal Action

White Plains, N. Y., July 8.—(AP)—Settlement of legal actions between Leonard Kip Rhineland, heir to the Rhineland family millions, and Alice Jones Rhineland, his former wife, will be effected July 16, in Las Vegas, Nev., Frank M. Gagliardi, attorney for Mrs. Rhineland, said today. Mrs. Rhineland is the daughter of a Negro cab driver.

Although Mr. Gagliardi refused to name the amount of the settlement it was understood from sources close to Mrs. Rhineland that the figure would be between $200,000 and $500,000.

In consideration of the money award, Mrs. Rhineland will cancel her separation suit in Westchester county against her divorced husband. It was announced, and will drop alienation proceedings naming Commodore Phillip Rhineland, father of her former spouse.

DEPARTMENT CREATED TO AID PUBLIC HEALTH

National Institute Will Be Clearing House of New Developments

By CECIL OWEN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Washington—(UP)—World leadership in medical research for the United States is expected by the United States Public Health Service to result from the creation by Congress of the National Institute of Health for which an appropriation of $750,000 has been authorized.

Viewing the economic loss from illness, estimated at more than $1,000,000,000 a year for this country alone, as a grave problem, Congress established the new institute with the intention it should become a world clearing house for modern medical knowledge.

Tentative plans outlined by the Health Service, which is charged with administration of the new agency, call for construction of a modern hospital and research center in the environs of Washington on a site of about 20 acres with ample facilities to care for animals essential in experimental research.

Objects of the institute were summarized today as: (1) To promote health, improve earning capacity, reduce living expenses, increase happiness and prolong life of American citizens; (2) To prevent disease by learning its cause and applying preventive measures in advance of its appearance; (3) To act as a clearing house where leading scientists of the world could exchange views and knowledge.

It is planned to have a series of fellowships in research by which the most able men and women scientists in the world are to be offered opportunity to co-operate with the institute on vital health problems. Close co-operation will be maintained also with private research agencies such as the Rockefeller Foundation and similar organizations.

Taking over the facilities of the existing hygienic laboratory of the Public Health Service which has been in existence since 1887, the new institute with that as a foundation is expected to build a model medical research center that will save millions and contribute in untold amounts to the world's medical progress.

Among the leading problems to be studied will be the extent and causes of such illnesses as the common cold which is estimated by afflicting 50,000,000 persons annually. Nutritional diseases, cancer, industrial hygiene, all phases of physiology and some aspects of mental hygiene problems, are also to be analyzed. Plans for the institute are still in the formative stage, however, and consideration while Miss Margaret Otterson, a pianiste of rare worth, will serve as accompanist.

Miss Earhart's record, set on the same measured course which Mrs. Barnes will fly, is 184.5 an hour.

In the afternoon there will be a half hour prelude devoted to a consideration of the world's great musical masters, following which American composers such as Victor Herbert, Charles Cadman, McDowell and their contemporaries will be discussed, while members of the Company will offer some of the best numbers of each of these composers, in all a symposium as unique as it is meritorious.

READY TO RETIRE

Syracuse, N. Y.—(UP)—After 65 years of angling and hunting, Col. Charles H. Mowry is ready to dispose of his collection of his rods and guns and other accessories to those "who will appreciate them." Col. Mowry, widely known in this section of New York state, said the biggest fish he ever caught was a Northern Pike, about 40 years ago. It was 40 pounds and 38 inches long, he said.

Seek Way To Pay Chicago Teachers

Chicago, July 8.—(UP)—Thousands of Chicago school teachers today received a ray of hope that vacation time may become vacation time after all.

When the schools closed two weeks ago there were 13,000 teachers to whom the city owed back pay. Some of them left the city. Others, without finances, remained. The school board, its treasury empty, could do nothing more than promise.

Last night Lewis E. Myers, trustee of the board, announced he would suggest to Chairman Silas H. Strawn of the City's special "rescue committee" that the board aid in a plan to pay the teachers by selling 1930 school tax anticipation warrants.

"Teachers and other employees should be paid and we will do all we can to see that they are," said Myers.

'MOST HATED' U. S. OFFICER TO RETIRE AUG. 29

General William W. Harts
Will Reach Age Of Retirement Then

By STEWART BROWN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris, July 9.—(UP)—General William Wright Harts, veteran of three wars and at a period during the World War the "most hated officer in the American Army," will lock up his desk at the American Embassy on August 29 and retire from the Army after 45 years of continuous service.

A white-haired commanding figure whose whole life has been devoted to soldiering, Brigadier-General Harts looks back over his career with great satisfaction and has no regrets for any part of it, he told the United Press. He retires on his 65th birthday.

"I have been told I was the most hated officer in the American Army because I had charge of the military police in Paris just before and after the armistice. They said I was too strict; I don't think I was strict enough. You cannot keep soldiers who have just finished a war from getting into trouble if you are not severe."

General Harts served in the Spanish War, the Philippine Insurrection and the World War, coming to France in 1917 as commander of the 6th Regiment of Engineers. During 1918 he was in charge of all American troops serving with the British and saw active service in the front line trenches.

After the Armistice he was charged with the safety of President Wilson and the American delegates in Paris to the peace conference after which he was made Chief of Staff of the American Army of Occupation in the Rhineland. He was recalled to Washington to answer charges brought by certain members of Congress concerning his strict disciplinary measures while in charge of the Paris district, but was vindicated and was praised instead of blamed for his conduct.

He was born at Springfield, Illinois.
GYPPIED BY GYPSIES
Syracuse, N. Y.—(UP)—Three Gypsy women alighted from their automobile at Tyler Hollow and engaged James Chapman, 70, in conversation. When they returned to their car he discovered his purse containing 70 cents was missing. He accused the women and they returned the purse. After they left he looked into it. The purse was empty.

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it. Tomorrow we'll explain the mistake and tell you the word. Then you can see how near a hundred you get.

The Last of a Rum-Runner

This spectacular air photo of a fiercely blazing ship off Boston Light is bad news only for the rum fleet. For the steamer Moritz was used as a liquor runner before being seized by authorities and disposed of in this way. The wooden vessel was built during the war for the U. S. Shipping Board, and later used as a coal freighter. It disappeared four years ago and was reported lost, only to be captured recently as a rum runner, burned and sunk.

Miss Broadway of 1930

There's a broken heart for almost every pretty girl on Broadway, and here's the reason—the prettiest, according to certain judges, of them all. In a contest, which invited the competition of all New York's musical pulchritude, Miss Violet Carson, as you see her here, smiled her way to the title of "Miss Broadway of 1930." The prize was a ticket to Europe, a round-trip one, of course, so Violet won't forget to come home.

DANCING JUDITH

by CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN
 COPYRIGHT 1930 BY CHELSEA HOUSE

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 JUDITH GRANT, artist, model, loves ALAN STEYNE, young painter, who is also loved by Judith's roommate, CHILMY STEYNE. Chummy and loved Steyne years ago, and lost her memory when he went away; so, though Steyne loves Judith, Judith insists that it is his duty to marry Chummy, who does not know of their love. Judith is studying dancing, and BRUCE GIBSON, dancer, who is infatuated with her, offers to star her in a musical show. Steyne is distrustful of Gibson's intentions, but Judith will not be warned. She dances for a group of friends at a studio party, and in a fall in the festivities finds herself standing beside Steyne at a window.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
 CHAPTER XXV

"I COULDN'T bear to see you dance in front of a great vulgar crowd," Alan said beneath his breath.

"Hush!" Judy whispered, frightened at the passion of his voice. "I've got to dance—I simply must. You've no idea what it's like."

"It drives me mad!" he went on. "It will drive other men mad!"

His voice was reckless. Judy held her breath as Chummy and Hyllon passed close to them.

"You mustn't talk like that," she said when they had gone by. "You must be crazy! Come and dance at once, and behave like other people."

He obeyed her, but the hands that held her might have been made of wood. He dared not realize that she was close to him, keeping step with him, a light, gossamer thing of perfect skill and grace. He stumbled heavily in his anguish, and she released herself.

"Chummy!" she laughed. "I'm parched. For mercy's sake, get me something to drink!"

There was more dancing, and they ate the sandwiches and cakes, and drank lemonade, or vermouth, or cold broth.

Then Tony and Michael begged Judy to dance again.

"I'm dog tired," she said; "but I don't mind, if it pleases you children."

Fred Brickell, Pirates—Clouted Cardinal pitching for three singles and a double.

Ted Lyons, White Sox—Pitched Sox to 3-2 decision over Tigers and drove in two runs with triple.

Eddie Morgan, Indians—Drove in four runs against Browns with single, double and home run.

George Walberg, Athletics—Held Yankees to three singles and blanked them, 4-0.

Hennie Manush, Senators—Hit homer with one on to beat Red Sox, 6-5.

Tom Zachary, Braves—Tamed Robins, 4-1, keeping nine hits well scattered.

THE two artists were overcome with amazement, truth to tell. They could hardly believe that this was the Judy they had known for years. They had never appreciated her charm, although they had admired her steadfast care of poor Chummy; but this—this feather-light embodiment of sheer art, this fiery, seductive, languid, gay, irresistible creature—they felt that their eyes must be deceiving them. They were eager for her to dance again, so that they might make sure.

But just then the telephone bell rang out in the little lobby. Alan went out and came back quickly.

"You're wanted, Miss Grant," he said. Often in addressing her he used the formal name.

Judy was away a long time—or so it seemed. They all talked together, but at last there came a full, prolonged out of nervousness. In it there was no sound of Judy's voice outside.

They waited; it seemed an interminable time. Then Alan opened ing for the selection of the defender of the America's Cup.

Ten years ago in a similar contest Adams sailed the Resolute and Nichols the Vanitie. Resolute won and Adams went out and turned back Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV.

Yesterday Whirlwind, sailed by Paul Hammond, defeated Yankee and Harold S. Vanderbilt sailed terprise to within 26 seconds of Weetamoc at the finish. Mrs. Hammond was aboard Whirlwind. Today Whirlwind meets Enterprise.

Trench Mouth Said To Be Prevalent Now
 Springfield, Ill., July 9—(UP)—Be-ware of the kiss that stings.

This was the warning issued here today by Director Andy Hall of the State Department of Health, following reports from various parts of the state of an epidemic of trench mouth, which, Hall explained, is due to kissing or using drinking cups that have been unsterilized.

As a means of combating the disease Hall has established a diagnostic laboratory in Springfield to be available for the assistance of dentists and physicians.

"Trench mouth is far more common than is popularly supposed," said Hall. "It is likely to spread more rapidly in the summer when drinking from unsterilized utensils at roadside stands and public places is more common than in winter. Several outbreaks have occurred recently."

Noble Hurdler Enters
 Chicago, July 9—(AP)—England's robleman hurdler, Lord David Burghley, who won the 400 meter hurdles in the 1928 Olympic games, will represent his country in the international meet on Soldier Field the night of August 27.

Lord Burghley withheld his entry until after the British championships at London last week. He won the 440-yard low hurdles and the 120 yard highs and decided he still was good enough to make the trip to Canada and the United States.

RECORDED ALEMITE SERVICE

keeps your car running like new--adds thousands of miles to its LIFE!

EVEN if you don't mind squeaks in your car, remember they signify burning friction, wear and early old age. Remember too, that they probably come from improper lubrication which causes 80% of ordinary repair bills.

More likely you want your car to run like new and to give you carefree, economical transportation throughout a long life. We urge you, therefore, to take advantage of RECORDED ALEMITE SERVICE.

First of all RECORDED ALEMITE SERVICE means that your car will be Alemited instead of just "greased." And what a difference this makes. The squeaks and irritating noises go. Your car runs quietly and smoothly, "like a dream." For, an Alemited Car means that genuine Alemite lubricants have been forced to the heart of every chassis bearing by scientific Alemite Service Equipment. You avoid dangerously inefficient, cheap greases that break down under pressure, literally burn up when heated and defeat the purpose of the Alemite System on your car.

Further than that, RECORDED ALEMITE SERVICE provides you with a complete and certified record of Alemite-ing which pedigrees your car and substantially increases its value when you are ready to sell or trade it in. Drive in ... ask for full details today.
